

Internship Positions at the Cleveland Council on World Affairs: Summer 2023

Description

Since 1923, the Cleveland Council on World Affairs (CCWA) has served as the resource for increasing understanding of international affairs and engaging globally minded citizens in Greater Cleveland. CCWA inspires engagement in international affairs through a vibrant lecture series, educational outreach to schools and universities, opportunities to engage in citizen diplomacy through professional and student exchanges, and continuing education and professional development programs.

CCWA has a long and successful tradition of providing meaningful intern experiences for undergraduate and graduate students. Interns support the different program areas of the Council. Often student interns are able to receive course credit for their CCWA internship.
