CENTENNIAL | 1923-2023

Celebrating 100 Years of CCWA

CCWA was founded in 1923 to promote peace and international understanding. To celebrate our centennial and demonstrate our gratitude to the community that has supported us for the past 100 years, CCWA celebrated our special milestone birthday with two spectacular events.

In June, CCWA convened a free civic forum to discuss why global engagement matters for the greater Cleveland area. Over 250 community members and civic leaders discussed existing international assets and efforts, shared personal experiences of international engagement, and explored how to further Cleveland's global connectivity.

In October, our centennial culminated in an elegant celebration of CCWA's impact in the community. The evening featured the presentation of our Centennial Global Impact Award to the U.S. Diplomatic Corps for serving our country on the world stage. The Dr. Wael Khoury Award for Emerging Global Leader was presented to Baiju R. Shah of the Greater Cleveland Partnership.

The Beginning of a New Century of Curiosity and Global Connection

DEAR MEMBERS AND FRIENDS,

As we kicked off our second century of inspiring engagement in world affairs, we had an opportunity to envision what sparking curiosity for the world will look like in our next 100 years. In this context, we were excited to launch our inaugural Global Ambassadors program, and to witness the enduring appeal of our core programs and the impact that they have on participants.

The past year saw increased attendance and demand for all of our program areas from speaker forums to global education and international exchanges. We could not do all of this without the support of our many members and partners: your active engagement means the world to us and we are so happy you are part of the CCWA family!

Thank you for your support, active engagement, and global curiosity.

FORUMS & EVENTS

Exploring Global Issues on a Local Level

Events around the world impact us here in Northeast Ohio. Global development and trends cross national borders. It is at this intersection of global and local that our Foreign Policy Forums explore what is at stake for Northeast Ohio, for our nation, and for the world. This past year, we engaged over 1,185 attendees at our Foreign Policy Forums, Cleveland Committee on Foreign Relations events, and programs hosted by our Young Professionals Advisory Committee.

SPEAKER SERIES | During the 2023-2024 program season, our Foreign Policy Forums explored issues like the war in Ukraine, predictions for the global economy, demographic shifts and their impact on global migration, and national security. A total of 996 attendees joined us for our 2023-2024 Foreign Policy Forums and Cleveland Committee on Foreign Relations programs, and over 116 students engaged with CCWA speakers. A special thank you goes to Margaret W. Wong & Associates, the presenting sponsor of our 2023-2024 Foreign Policy Forum series, and to Wael and Sawssan Khoury, to Raj and Karen Aggarwal and to the John Hellman Estate for their support of our programs.

YOUNG PROFESSIONALS | World Affairs belong to everyone, and CCWA specifically welcomes young professionals to join the conversation. Through our Carter E. Strang Young Professionals Advisory Committee (YPAC) and Richard W. Pogue Fellowship, CCWA has benefited from the energy and enthusiasm of the next generation of globally-minded Clevelanders.

"CCWA provides the ability to connect with peers who are curious and enthusiastic about global affairs", reflects Bre Ganuelas-Tischler, member of YPAC. "I'm excited to be in a group of dynamic individuals who are dedicated to contributing to CCWA's mission. We can harness our passion for international affairs and shape the organization's trajectory."

CCWA's New Global Ambassadors Program Puts Cleveland on the Map

"A program like this really expands the scope and the worldview of the future leaders of Cleveland and creates cross-cultural connections and community. If we want to compete with other cities across the country and around the world, we have to have that global mindset. And this is the program that will do that."

CCWA's new Global Ambassadors program for emerging leaders sparked global connections during an unforgettable global study trip and leadership development program.

This past year, eight emerging leaders, representing diverse professional backgrounds, were a part of CCWA's inaugural Global Ambassadors cohort. After participating in a year-long immersive leadership and professional development course, they traveled to Finland and Spain to learn about challenges and opportunities for global cities.

The Global Ambassadors delegation traveled to Helsinki and Madrid to explore how these cities are leveraging their strengths as global cities, specifically in the areas of economic development, community building, and sustainability. They exchanged views with European leaders on best practices in these areas and strengthened ties between Helsinki, Madrid, and Cleveland. The Global Ambassadors returned to Cleveland, inspired by the experience, determined to help build a more global future for our city!

"It has been an incredible experience to partner with CCWA to bring guest speakers to our school for small-group interaction or to attend speaker events in the evening. PROGRAMS FOR STUDENTS AND EDUCATORS

Global Learning in Cleveland Classrooms

“When I was fourteen, I decided to join my high school Model UN team, which would serve to be one of the best decisions I made as a high school student,” reflects Model UN program alumna Sasha Seckers, echoing a sentiment shared by many students who have had their global curiosity catalyzed by CCWA's educational programs.

“Model UN taught me so many valuable skills – from diplomacy, grace, public speaking and compassion, to an increased awareness of global issues and topics. I became a more well-rounded and globally minded individual as a result”, Seckers continues. “Model UN helped me develop a sense of confidence, and it left me with lifelong skills that I will forever utilize.”

CCWA is proud to provide global learning experiences that have such a big impact on students like Sasha. During the 2023-2024 academic year, we engaged record numbers of students and teachers in our programs. This past year saw an expansion of Model UN's student leadership committee, and in total CCWA's Model United Nations Conferences brought together 1,722 students to discuss global challenges.

BRIDGES TO THE WORLD | Our engagement with schools went far beyond Model United Nations. In the past year we've connected to countless classrooms across the region through our Bridges to the World program: we convened a global education roundtable for educators and school administrators; trained teachers on how to incorporate refugee issues into their curriculum across a diverse selection of subject areas; provided over 20 experiential learning sessions on diplomacy and refugee issues at local schools; engaged teachers in the U.S. Institute of Peace Day of Peace event; and hosted the local Academic WorldQuest competition.

“The CCWA diplomacy simulation was excellent. My students deserve experiential learning opportunities that give them space to think critically, negotiate, and advocate. It was amazing to watch this room full of English Language Learners spring to life and negotiate solutions to complex problems. They were willing to meet in the middle and find a peaceful path forward. Thank you so much CCWA for making this possible.”

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGES

Welcoming the World to Cleveland

Right here in Northeast Ohio, you can welcome the world to your dinner table. That is exactly what Linda Robertson has been doing as a CCWA Citizen Diplomat for the past twenty years. She has welcomed international guests hailing from countless countries, from Mali to Myanmar.

"I have had guests in my home from around the globe, from all walks of life, and speaking many languages. These dinner parties became a way to expose family, friends, and professional colleagues with the world," reflects Linda. "Hosting international visitors helps you see the humanity of the world. Within the time that you share one meal, you feel like you have a friend for a lifetime."

From pierogi parties to hot dogs at the ballpark, CCWA offers local citizen diplomats opportunities to break bread and build bridges with the rest of the world. During the 2023-2024 program year, CCWA welcomed Japanese women leaders working in manufacturing, disability educators from Indonesia, global public health officials from across Latin America, non-profit professionals from Chad, students from Ukraine, and so much more! A special thank you to all our Citizen Diplomats who helped give the international visitors a warm welcome to Northeast Ohio!

CITIZEN DIPLOMAT AWARD | The exchange work of CCWA was celebrated on the national stage at the Global Ties U.S. 2024 National Meeting in Washington D.C. in March. One of CCWA's community resources, Rid-All

Green Partnership, was a recipient of the prestigious Global Ties U.S. 2024 Citizen Diplomat Award. CCWA has connected international visitor groups with Rid-All on topics ranging from urban agriculture and food access to social entrepreneurship and youth outreach. In 2023 alone, Rid-All hosted over 60 international visitors through CCWA, including professional delegations and youth exchange programs.

OUTBOUND EXCHANGES | Although most of the CCWA exchanges bring visitors to Cleveland, last year, CCWA was able to select local participants for U.S. Department of State outbound exchanges. Dionne Huffman of Saint Luke's Foundation in Cleveland was part of the Professional Fellows Program outbound exchange program to Chennai, India, in August 2023. The trip exposed participants to the civil society and NGO sector in Chennai and helped build connections between the U.S. and India. "The concept of creating a more just and kind world by connecting people from different backgrounds on a personal and professional level is genius. It is a simple concept that carries so much weight," reflects Dionne of the experience.

This experience is well worth the time and effort."
